COMPETITIONS

Someday Challenge

The Someday Challenge is a filmmaking challenge for anyone under the age of 25 to make a short film about an issue they care about.

The Someday Challenge is free to enter, we select 10 winning films and there are lots of prizes to be won. So start making your film today!

2022 BEST AWARDS FINALIST

AMY MILLER

LIST: DATE UNKNOWN

Congratulations to Whitecliffe Alumni Student: Amy Miller from the School of Design Innovation for being a 2022 Best Awards Finalist!

'List: Date Unknown' explores the space between the neatness of an archive and the messiness of a personal collection through collating, archiving and indexing objects and family memories from personal history.

The work takes ephemera including old letters, postcards, and photographs all with some degree of privacy, and shows how a different treatment of them affects the reading of the object and opens up space to the meanings they hold. 'List: Date Unknown' explores connecting memories and history to knowledge and material matter, connections within the content between family members, and connecting to the audience as reminder of one's own history and past and one's own culture and heritage. The work touches on the idea of public versus private. I wanted to explore the impact of taking an object created for a fleeting moment in time, given as a personal object and turn it into a piece to be viewed publicly. Dealing with personal history and belongings brought up issues of privacy that exist around memories, intimate familial conversations and complex family histories. In considering the importance of how we deal with content like this, I brought the idea of redaction into the book. The work holds space for what can be shared publicly, what can be translated for the audience, and what can left without context.

I was interested in the spaces of analogue and digital, and how we both communicate and collect differently across past and present in these spaces.

The typefaces throughout the book are chosen with this in mind, and are intended to draw links back to printed types featured in the postcards, the different handwritings features in the material, and the theme of indexing. The material I was collating is very physical in nature – postcards, mailed letters, photographs in old photo albums – and yet I received half of them online in digital form from across the world. I wanted to keep a sense of physicality while contrasting between the digital and analogue, and allow the viewer to consider those worlds, highlighting the differences in how we now communicate, as well as the aesthetic differences from the age of snail mail to the computer screen.

HOW TO SPOT A BISEXUAL IN THE WILD

Tote Bag

Containing keys, 2 pairs of sunglasses, crystals to attract good fortune, a good book, a snack and a voodoo doll of their enemy

Reusable Cup

Beverage of choice is highly caffeinated and made with almond milk to avoid IBS induced diarrhoea

Patchwork Tattoos

Bonus points if they have a snake tattoo

Short Chipped Nails

They made the effort to have nicely done nails but inevitably the nail polish is picked off due to their crippling anxiety

Second-hand Clothes

The best ugly-cute clothes are found in ophops. Bisexuals can be found roaming the aisles of vintage stores searching for the perfect pair of baggy jeans

Multiple Piercings

Bisexuals are like magpies, they collect shiny things

Grandma Midi Skirt

The more grandma-ish the better

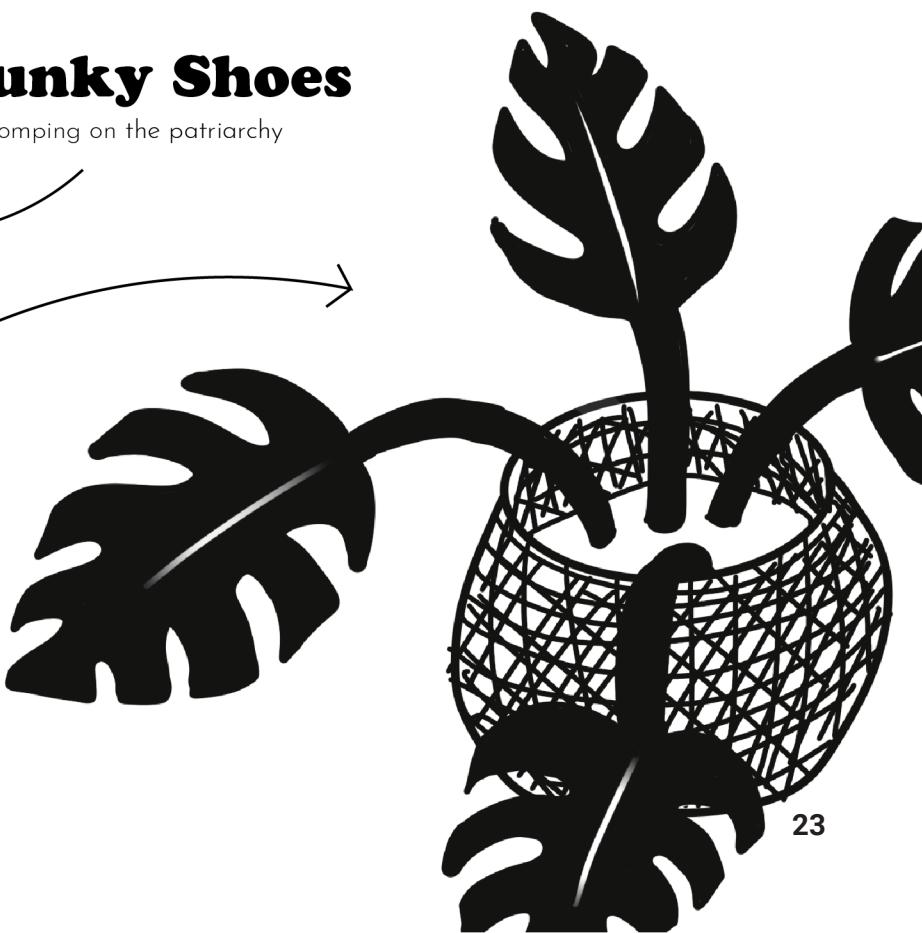

Chunky Shoes

For stomping on the patriarchy

Plants

Their habitat is filled with foliage and greenery. Their plants are more important to them than their own family

Life's Short, Dump Them

Dump them. Why? Because you always deserve Better.

FOOD SPOTS

St Kevins Arcade- Karangahape Road

The logo for PICI, featuring the word "PICI" in a bold, black, sans-serif font.

Pici is such a cute little bustling spot, the pasta menu is always fabulous and the seasonal specials are always a hit! Paired with great service, wine and drinks and you've got a winner. Whoever is in control of the playlist knows the right vibe for a K road venue.

The logo for LOWBROW, featuring the word "LOWBROW." in a bold, black, sans-serif font above the text "GOOD FOOD & NATURAL WINE".

If you're in K road and you want a drink and good fried chicken, this is IT. Hip, trendy, fun, with terrific food. Go go go. Definitely a place to sit down and enjoy the atmosphere of St Kevins Arcade.

The logo for LORD OF THE FRIES, featuring the words "LORD OF THE FRIES" in a bold, black, sans-serif font with a red horizontal bar behind it.

So nice to go somewhere and the entire menu is vegan friendly. Food was really good and non greasy. Good portion sizes and friendly staff as well. Favourite was the sweet potato fries! Also student price friendly!
